Claims 7-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In particular, in Claim 7, next to last line, the phrase "not being lifted again" is ambiguous since the applicant has not claimed anything that would be "lifted" in the first place. Also, it is unclear what the term "lifted even means. Correction of these ambiguities is required.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Igashira ('453).

In particular, Claim 7, unlike the other independent claims, does not require the use of two separate valves. The other independent claims require a second valve that must be located in the return line and must be used to block the return flow. The method of Claim 7 is practiced by Igashira in that the piezoelectric valve is first opened and later closed by the control circuit. The movement of the valve is clearly shown in Figure 2 of the reference.

Claims 1-6 and 10-18 are allowed.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
